Looking forward to who will be crowned the world athletes of the year

Dozens of new champions were crowned at the Rio 2016 Olympic Games, while the top performers in the IAAF Diamond League have all been awarded trophies. The IAAF World Challenge, IAAF Combined Events Challenge, IAAF Hammer Throw Challenge and IAAF Race Walking Challenge have also all reached their climax.

At the end of another spectacular season of athletics, the only accolades left to decide are the IAAF World Athletes of the Year.

The voting process be revealed in the coming weeks and the announcement of the winners will take place live on stage during a special ceremony in Monaco at the IAAF Awards Night on 2 December.

TIME FOR CHANGE

As part of the IAAF’s governance structure reform process, IAAF President Sebastian Coe and the Working Group on Governance Structure Reform (WGGSR) will embark upon a global roadshow throughout October and November.

Coe and the WGGSR will meet with member federations in each of the six areas to talk through the ‘Time For Change’ document, which explains in full the reform proposals, why they are important, how they fit with the IAAF’s overall vision, and the associated opportunities and benefits for the sport.

The roadshows will be focused on ensuring that there is a comprehensive understanding of the reform proposals ahead of the Special Congress on 3 December.
