Looking forward to the IAAF Diamond League

After seven seasons which have established the IAAF Diamond League as the sport’s premier circuit, the series returns on 5 May in Doha for an eighth year with some major changes.

A new ‘championship style’ format, an updated scoring system and a change in the distribution of disciplines, the IAAF Diamond League finals will now offer a dramatic showdown between the world’s best athletes, a true climax to a four-month race across four continents.

The IAAF World Challenge, IAAF Combined Events Challenge and IAAF Hammer Throw Challenge all get underway in the next few weeks, signalling the start of a summer season that will culminate with the IAAF World Championships London 2017.

'A GREAT SPORT, OUR ATHLETES AND WHAT THEY DO IS COMPPELLING'

The second and final day of the 209th IAAF Council Meeting took place in London and was chaired by IAAF President Sebastian Coe.

In his report to the Council Meeting, IAAF CEO Olivier Gers gave an update on his first six months in office.

"We have a great sport, the best sport, our athletes and what they do is compelling," said Gers. "We have a solid association structure to deliver our sport, we have passionate people right across the sport but we need to work with partners to create more opportunities.
